

W&M's Campus in Washington, D.C.

Started in 2001, the William & Mary Washington Center partners with faculty from departments and schools across the university to offer high-impact learning experiences for undergraduate students in all majors.

Internships + Applied Learning

Mentorship + Networking

Professional Development + Experience

5

Study in D.C.

GAIN EXPERIENCE, BUILD YOUR NETWORK, AND GET CAREER READY

OPPORTUNITIES

The Study in D.C. umbrella consists of five distinct programs spanning the entire academic year.

Internship-bearing Programs

Provides students with individualized support in applying, securing, and succeeding in an internship and structured programming for professional development and interdisciplinary courses.

Accelerated Course Programs

Offering students accelerated courses and experiential learning opportunities over winter and summer break.

EARN COLL REQUIREMENTS

Plan ahead and stay up to date on upcoming Study in D.C. courses carrying COLL attributes.

Stay in the loop.

Scan or click on the QR code to receive program updates and application reminders

wm.edu/studyindc

Less lectures, more doing. Whether you're touring the NPR studio, interviewing an alum at the State Department, or catching a flight to Brussels for an EU tour, Study in D.C. is all about experience.

INTERNSHIP-BEARING PROGRAMS

D.C. Summer Institutes: Seven-credit intensive, themed institutes composed of a two-week accelerated class and a ten-week internship over summer break. Students will participate in one of three tracks and can intern anywhere.

D.C. Semester Program: A 12-credit academic experience with an internship component open to students from all majors offered each fall and spring semester. Students will pay their regular W&M tuition and earn both COLL 300 and 350 credits.

Global Scholars Program: A year-long global policy and international affairs program with cohort-specific social and academic activities. Students will study abroad, study in D.C., network with professionals, and complete an internship over the course of the academic year.

ACCELERATED COURSES

D.C. Winter Seminars: Three-credit COLL 300 and COLL 350 courses conducted over 10-days during students' Winter Break. DCWS combines seminar-style discussions with a W&M professor and networking with experts and alumni through guest lectures and site visits.

Hybrid D.C. Summer Session: Three-credit, 5-week hybrid courses of mostly online coursework with one week (five consecutive evening sessions) in D.C. Most courses carry COLL 300 or COLL 350 designations. Designed to be flexible to accommodate jobs and internships.

ALL ARE WELCOME. SCHOLARSHIPS AND FINANCIAL SUPPORT AVAILABLE